About Us

The Student Nurses' Association at Sri Shanmugha College of Nursing for Women is among the dynamic units in Tamil Nadu. Our students have occupied top positions within the Tamil Nadu State Student Nurses Association. The association strives to harness the innate potential of its members, promoting the development of unique talents for comprehensive growth. Its focus is on nurturing and sustaining the talents of its members, aiming to cultivate responsible citizenship and competence in the nursing profession. Our college's SNA unit adheres to the regulations outlined by the Trained Nurses Association of India (TNAI).

Objectives:

- Acknowledge and implement the principles of the Nursing Profession.
- Foster a sense of teamwork among members for collective benefit.
- Offer avenues for cultivating effective leadership qualities.
- Promote engagement in social and community initiatives.
- Uncover latent talents and foster self-assurance among members.
- Motivate students to vie for awards in diverse competitions and participate in national and regional conferences.

SNA ACTIVITIES

First zonal level competition

Participating in zonal-level nursing conferences serves as a platform for regional networking, specialized learning, and collaborative efforts to address local healthcare needs. These conferences offer nurses opportunities to connect with colleagues in their specific geographic region, fostering relationships and knowledge exchange among professionals who share similar challenges and experiences. With a focus on regional healthcare issues, cultural considerations, and unique nursing practices, zonal conferences provide a deeper understanding of the healthcare landscape within the region. Through workshops, presentations, and poster sessions, attendees engage in professional development, gaining insights into the latest advancements, evidence-based practices, and innovative approaches tailored to their locality. Moreover, zonal conferences often feature discussions on advocacy, policy, and collaboration, empowering nurses to play active roles in addressing regional healthcare priorities and improving patient outcomes. Additionally, these conferences offer continuing education credits, allowing nurses to meet licensure requirements while staying abreast of developments in nursing practice, education, and research. Overall, participation in zonal-level nursing conferences fosters regional networking, specialized learning, and collaborative efforts aimed at enhancing patient care and advancing nursing practice within the specific geographic area.

Our students participated in various events and got III place in Hair do and poster presentation competitions in Zonal level.

State level Biennial conference

Students participated in State level cultural/ sports competition at Salem.

Participating in state-level nursing conferences serves several purposes:

1. Professional Development: These conferences provide opportunities for nurses to stay updated on the latest advancements, research findings, and best practices in nursing. Workshops, presentations, and keynote speeches offer valuable insights that can enhance nursing skills and knowledge.

2. Networking: Conferences bring together nurses from various healthcare settings and specialties. Networking allows nurses to connect with peers, share experiences, and build professional relationships. These connections can lead to collaboration on projects, job opportunities, and mentorship.

3. Continuing Education: Many nursing conferences offer continuing education credits, which are essential for maintaining nursing licensure. Attending workshops and presentations can fulfill these requirements while also expanding nurses' knowledge base.

4. Exposure to New Ideas: Conferences often feature sessions on emerging trends and innovative approaches in nursing practice, education, and research. Exposure to new ideas can inspire nurses to adopt fresh perspectives and implement positive changes in their work environments.

5. Advocacy and Policy: State-level nursing conferences may include sessions on healthcare policy, advocacy, and legislative updates. Nurses can learn about current issues affecting the profession and explore ways to advocate for patients and the nursing profession at the local and state levels.

Overall, participating in state-level nursing conferences can contribute to professional growth, networking opportunities, and staying informed about the latest developments in the field, ultimately enhancing the quality of patient care.

SPORTS & GAMES

Students participated in institutional sports events as a part of SNA activities.

Sports and games represent an innovative teaching approach that research suggests can significantly enhance nursing student learning outcomes. Notably, participation in sports and games has been linked to improved retention of knowledge, the facilitation of problem-based learning, and increased engagement among nursing students. Existing literature highlights that integrating sports and games into nursing education fosters active learning, stimulates critical thinking, adds excitement to the learning process, and offers opportunities to simulate real-life scenarios. However, empirical evidence supporting these benefits is limited. This manuscript explores the literature surrounding sports and games, outlines their application as teaching strategies, and discusses their implications for nursing education.

Students involved in social welfare activities at community area.

The NSS unit of our college has garnered recognition as the top-performing unit in the district. Furthermore, the Youth Red Cross unit is actively engaged in organizing health awareness rallies, planting trees across the campus, facilitating debates on social issues, and conducting regular blood donation camps. These two units are committed to nurturing a sense of social responsibility among our students.
